Do The Rye Thing

We did it. New York's first straight rye whiskey in nearly a century, in a style all our own. Before Prohibition, New York was praised for its historic rye whiskey. We honor that heritage with the bold, spicy character of Do The Rye Thing.

Empire Rye. Each of our rye whiskeys uphold precise standards agreed upon by the Empire Rye Whiskey Association paying homage to New York State's pre-Prohibition style of whiskey. View the full list of standards and participating NY distilleries at empirerye.com.

Short Stack

A result of an innovative partnership, we provide our used bourbon casks to a Vermont maple tapper to age artisanal syrup. We then re-fill the maple-cured casks with fully matured Do The Rye Thing to impart a gentle maple sweetness.

Back Room Deal

There's a bit of smoke in the air. We send our ex-bourbon barrels across the Atlantic where they're used to age peated whiskey, then emptied and returned to our distillery where we fill them up with straight rye whiskey.

Perfect Pairings. Back Room Deal artfully combines two iconic whiskey styles - Scotch and American Rye. The balance between smoky peat and spicy rye sets up this whiskey as a perfect pairing with smoked brisket, dark chocolate, or your favorite cigar.

Corn Vodka

Using the same mash bill as Bright Lights, Big Bourbon, our Corn Vodka is column-distilled to 190 proof and carbon-filtered for an ultimately smooth and clean finish. It's neutral notes keep this vodka versatile, making it essential for every home bartender.

FINISH

Short, Crisp

Did You Know? In the 1950s, vodka became widely consumed in the United States during the rise of American cocktail culture. Thanks to the Screwdriver, Bloody Mary, Moscow Mule and other classic cocktails, vodka became one of the most beloved spirits in the world.

Apple Vodka

Tuthilltown Apple Vodka was the first spirit that ran off our stills in 2003. Hudson Valley apples are harvested, pressed, and fermented before the cider is column-distilled into a vodka. The difference is obvious - no artificial flavorings for a true apple-based spirit.
